Butler's Quarantine.

To the Editor of the Democrat: Your interesting editorial of to-day brings to mind an incident connected with the appearance of yellow-fever in New Orleans, which is of so much importance that it should be made a matter of record in the secular as well as the medical press; and perhaps this is the most opportune moment that could have occurred.

As you say, it has been the boast of the notorious Butler that he kept yellow-fever out of New Orleans in 1862, and the people of New Orleans, as well as of the outside world, generally believe that Butler and his agents tell the truth. I was in New Orleans when the city fell. and military circumstances prevented my departure until the first day of October fol lowing. Early in September of that year I saw a most virulent case of yellow-fever near St. Mary's Market, and its history, in brief, is as follows: One day my friend, the late Dr. E. D. Fenner (who, by the way, was always looking for yellow-fever), asked me if I would like to see a case of imported Yellow-Jack. I said yes; and at once he took me in his buggy to a house in the region indicated. In a small back gallery-room on the second floor was a white man in the last stage of the disease. He had been sick four days; he was throwing black vomit everywhere, and there was not a symptom lacking to make him what we doctors call a "type case." Fortunately his intellect was entirely clear, and he gave this brief history : He had left New York in command of a steamtug (the Ida, I think,) bound for New Orleans. He put in at Nassau, and laid in that harbor several days. He did not allow his crew to go ashore, but he went himself several times.

He did not know that yellow-fever was prevailing there, but we had for some time had information to that effect. He was sick when he arrived at quarantine, but he got out of bed and passed through. I said: "Captain, how did you, a sick man, and fever in Nassau, get through Butler's military quarantine?" He raised his trembling hand, and, rubbing his finger and thumb together, said, in his faint voice, "So." You don't mean," I said, "to say that you bought your way through with money?" "Yes, sir; with money."

This man was surrounded by a number of northern people boarding at the same house, and wholly unacclimated. Dr. Fenner and I said to each other, "Well, if yellow-fever can be imported-if it can be imparted by the sick to the well-this is the occasion.

Together we watched (with the assistance of the landlady) the people who surrounded this dying man. I left for the Confederate army on the 1st of October. Up to that time none of the boarders sickened. Dr. Fenner watched until cold weather, but none sickened. Such are the important facts connected steamtug. In more aspects than one there is food for reflection. One point can never be successfully controverted. The boasted quarantine of Butler was broken, and with money. D. WARREN BRICKELL, M. D.

LOCAL MATTERS.

THE FOREIGN AND COASTWISE TRADE-ENCOURAGING EXHIBIT-VALUE OF EXPORTS, &c.-While the exports for the past week were not the largest on record in the history of our custom-house, there were clearances every day, which is something rare; and the clearances were made to more dif-ferent countries than is customary. Below will be found an account of the clearances.

German brig Primus, for Pernambuco. Brazil, with 2,205 barrels of flour, valued at $12,591, cleared Monday; German bark Schiller, for Bremen, Germany, with leaf and stem tobacco, valued at $38,925, and the American schooner Harry and Fred. for St. Johns, N. B., with 325 tons of cannel coal, valued at $2,800, cleared Tuesday; Norwegian bark Gefa, for Rio Janeiro, Brazil, with 3,744 barrels of flour, valued at $22,500. cleared Wednesday; American brig Stephen Bishop, for Genoa, Italy, with tobacco, valued at $45,000, and the Norwegian bark Golga, for Bristol, England, with tobacco, valued at $56,680, cleared Thursday; American schooner S. H. Crawford, for Lisbon, the Norwegian bark Ligrlinn, for Elsinore, Denmark, with oil, valued at $7,000, cleared Saturday. The value of the tobacco exported was $158,000; flour, $35,091; oil, $7,000; coal, $2,800; staves, logs, and miscellaneous, $2,108; aggregate, $204.999.

During the week the Norwegian bark Rival entered with salt from Liverpool, and four other vessels entered in ballast to load for European or Brazilian ports. A number of vessels are now engaged in taking on cargoes, and will be cleared this week. During the week ten vessels entered from Baltimore, Orient (L. I.), New York, Boston, Philadelphia, and Alexandria, with cargoes of salt, merchandise, coal, guano, and wheat. The number of clearances was fourteen-to Providence (R. I.). Philadelphia, Washington, Portland (Me.), New York, and Portsmouth (N. H.)-with millfeed, coal, granite, lumber, bark, logs, and paving-blocks. Several vessels came seeking, and a number are now at our wharves discharging and receiving cargoes.

THE MARKETS SATURDAY-CURRENT RATES. The markets Saturday presented no new features. Vegetables, fruit, and fresh meats were plentiful at previous quotations. Some vegetables were, to use a common phrase, "dirt cheap." The stalls devoted to country produce were well supplied at the following quotations: Butter, 20 to 30c. per pound; eggs, 16fc. per dozen; chickens, 40 to 60c. per pair. Spots were plentiful at from 20 to 25c. per dozen; crocus, 15c. per dozen; with the case of the poor captain of the trout, 15 to 20c. per dozen; sturgeon, 4 to 5c. per pound; crabs, 25 to 30c. per dozen; sora, 65 to 75c, per dozen. The demand for all articles was large, and the markets were crowded during the greater portion of the day and after nightfall. The moderation of the weather towards evening prevented a "corner" in watermelons. Every American citizen of African descent was enabled to secure several, and was correspondingly happy. Such a very worthy object will no doubt attract a large number of persons to join the excursion train. The advertisement does not give the hour the train will leave, but we suppose it will be at 8 o'clock,
